More about the day

at Norwich Cathedral

Join us for a day of learning about your church's potential for mission and community service.

The morning session will be dedicated to discussions about the challenges and opportunities around interpreting your church's history. The afternoon session will guide you through practical uses of your church building to better meet the needs of your congregation, community and visitors. This will include looking at community engagement, making physical adaptations to the building as well as thinking about what it really means to open up your church to the wider community.

The day will be of most use to those who are just starting to think about opening up their church and are interested in exploring ideas and options, although we welcome those who are at any stage of the process.

How to register

To book a place please contact Julia Jones at jjones@cathedral.org.uk or on 01603 218448. If emailing please provide your preferred email address, phone number and parish, plus any dietary requirements.

The costs of the training day are £15.00 per person, which include a light lunch. Cheques can be made out to 'Norwich Cathedral' and sent to: Norwich Cathedral Library, 65 The Close, Norwich, NR1 4DH. Please note that registration and payment is required by Wednesday 1 March 2017.

Our thanks to the Bishop of Norwich and the Anne French Memorial Trust, whose generosity makes this training day possible.
